

Whiffy introduces the Matrics

Now that I've been introduced, it's my privilege to do the honors for this year's graduates. I think our matrics are sane but I found several weird geniuses (?), mad artists, frustrated hep-cats, potential funny men and a few black sheep. On the whole they are rather nice, although, naturally they can't compare with skunks.

Margaret Dawdy — Marg is Central's hardest working student. Besides being Secretary of the Student Council, she runs errands while missing dinner, keeps neat notes for the benefit of others, is pianist for many school functions.

Carol Chapman—The "life" of IVA's hum-drum life, is also Central's capable song leader. Carol spends her time corresponding with Dot and looking for her "neatly filed notes."

Jessie Chow—the most pessimistic student in IVA, keeps the room well stocked with candy and gum. If there are two sides to an argument, Jessie takes the negative

Marilyn Clarke—Marilyn never seems to get enough air. If she isn't opening windows, she is gossiping about the latest with her friends from IVB.

Anne Durrant—One of the smarter members of our abode, Anna cheerfully hands out her notes near exam time. Anna may be seen conversing with a certain fellow at the back of the room.

Elsie Endo—One of the quieter members of IVA, Elsie is always seen to have a smile on her face. Elsie is our room rep. and we are proud to say that she is a very good one, as she is not afraid to speak up and say what she thinks.

Shirley Gadd—Shirley never has much to say and we often wonder if she's here. "Still waters run deep." She rides to school in her own car, lucky girl!

Dot Ohom—Dot keeps up the morale of the inhabitants of the back of the room with her pep talks. She dashes in after the bell, but seems reluctant to leave after school.

4A

Christine Wong and May Wong—These girls are both new to Central and have already made many friends. They work hard in school and pull down some high marks. Welcome to Canada!

Kay Zaporinuk—Kay, an enthusiastic member of the Collegiate Choristers, is also a badminton player. Kay plans to enter the nursing profession at the end of the school year.

Bruce Braaten—Bruce had kindly consented to let us know when he has more in his notes than there is in all the Grade XII text books. Bruce claims he will go wacky over French if the Frenchmen do not give in and learn English.

Ken Hayes—Five 50%'s have always been his goal. He foresees the completion of two of his four subjects this year. Such will continue 'till infinity. He plans to write a history book for the annals of IVA.

Robert McDermit—In physics class, Bob quietly expounded his theory on gravitation: "The force of attraction between fence posts is directly proportional to the number of rows."

Norman McIver—Norman spent a great deal of this year cultivating the friendship of most of IVA's girls. "Loverboy" took time out from selling sandals at "Jake's" to engage in a bit of tongue-tossing in the Oratory Contest with a great measure of success.

Robert McRitchie—Bob believes in a fair distribution of his time and talents . . . one week spent at school, one week spent working at the office. "Robert", as Miss Greene would have him tagged, is always well-dressed and well-spoken.

Robert Oie—"Bo" was that bundle of fun with the bold little laugh in IVA before he sought greener pastures at the coast.

Gordon Silverman — Enjoys bothering Dorothy Ohm, when he has nothing better to do. Gord, is one of those lucky guys who drives his own car.

Howard Wadsworth—"Bud" is a steady worker and always has a ready joke. He and John Zaporinuk are inseparable friends.

Ron Wilson—In a quiet tone we would like to introduce meek little Ronnie who quietly laughs at other people's jokes and is sometimes seen with the family car. In the interests of Science, this meek little martyr is endeavouring to determine the amount of centrifugal force required to wrap said car around a telephone post.

Garth Woodrow — On St. Andrew's Day he's Scotch . . . on St. George's Day he's English . . . on St. Patrick's Day he's Irish. He sings (for lack of a better word) in St. John's choir and takes out his wrath on a drum in St. Andrew's pipe band. In the future he will be known as St. "Woody."

Form 4B

Delores Armour—"Oh, I could have died!" is Del's favourite phrase, but how she gets in a position to need the phrase is what we wonder. Del is also an ardent Badminton fan and can be seen down at the club almost any old time.

Jackie Donaldson—A slender blonde, Jackie rates on the list of good students. Just look at her marks and you'll see. Among the other things Jackie does well is Drama. Too bad we haven't had any opportunity to see her display this talent this year.

Betty MacTavish—A little blonde with an infectious laugh and a good word for all. She is one of the top bowlers at Central. If you have ever heard Betty sing I am sure you wouldn't want to miss her a second time.

Marilyn McCarthy — Marilyn ran for Miss Central this year and is Dick's pride and joy. Need we say more?

John Zaporinuk—Johnny, more commonly known as "Zap," is our sports' representative on the Students' Council.

Ron McLean—A future physicist . . . no less. An ardent Central curler, Ron recently put in his appearance in Central's well-trodden halls.

Lorne Elliott—Lorne, Central's Badminton Champion, also excels in Basketball, rugby, tennis and, of course, in the art of arguing . . . with teachers.

John McCaslin—And now ladies and gentlemen I give you the hard-working official pen-pusher of the pulp and paper in which this appears. John has worked (he belongs to no union) laboriously to complete his major accomplishment of the year . . . the Outlook.

Charlie Tai—Chuck balances a tray in George Wong's bread-eating establishment. Working outside of school, it is a wonder he finds time to do all his homework. He can't decide whether to finish his Grade Twelve and become head waiter by merit of said diploma or quit now and become Prime Minister of Canada.

Fred Fysh—He is no sucker as his name might imply. Frederick is a promising pianist, excels in Physics and Chemistry, and is the Business Manager of the Outlook.

Jean McDonald — A black haired lass who bowls and enjoys it. Jean also attends those country dances we hear so much about. We often wonder what the attraction could be.

Elsie Monk—This girl is really quiet, studious and gets along especially well with Garth, even when he takes her lunch. Oh well we all have to put up with Garth, don't we Elsie?

Ann Sewchuk—Ann is a great basketball player, was on the winning team this year. She is also good natured and happy-go-lucky. What more could we say?

Rena Spence—Rena is IVB's camera fiend, with pictures everywhere. She is also Garth's special . . . time-teller of course. With all those pictures Rena takes of the teachers we wonder she doesn't run a blackmail business.

Fay Tingley—Fay a studious, quiet member took on a sudden change this year. Studious, yes, but quiet?? Well that's for you to decide. Fay seems to be attracted to IVA quite a lot (along with Rena). Ever wonder why?

Anne Tkach—Anne is one who keeps her studies up, and when we hear Mr. Chapman say, "Well, what's troubling you?" we know Anne is near. favourite expression of Anne's is, "No one on our end of town ever does anything! What's the matter with you starting the ball rolling, Anne?"

Sylvia Traves—The gal who loves to write letters, and does! We hear she wants to be a crime reporter, so behave yourself.

Carol Young—Now here's a gal with a lot . . . beauty, brains, figure, a keen sense of humour and a love for Calgary.

Stella Zbadynski—You never know what Stella will say next. She comes out with the most surprising things, and yet they are right to the point. With her clever mind and ambition we know she will go far.

Blanche Broostad—With her ready smile, Blanche wins the hearts of all the spectators for whom she so aptly performs. We wish Blanche the best of luck in future.

Morley Becker—Morley is one of the more studious members of IVB. With many arguments he manages to keep things lively for Elsie between periods. Morley can be seen curling with Ron and Bill during the winter months.

Gordon Dempsey—Gordon is an active athletic member of Central. He plays for the Grads, the senior rugby team, and also plays badminton and curls. He spends most of his time "sitting" for "Snooks" at the Riding Club.

Campbell Evans—"Cam" is another IVB member of the senior rugby team. His interests lie in the flying fields and in girls. (Tsk, Tsk.)

Bill Hughes—You can find Bill bothering his female class mates continually. Bill is an ardent curler in Central and has a great time keeping Literature in mind for Mr. Morrow.

Don Jopson—Don is the male whiz in IVB for high marks. You can see Don nearly always in a maroon Pontiac and usually with a girl from the Convent. Don played for the senior Rugby team and expects to be at "U" next term.

Charlie Lamb—Charlie is a very keen Biology student, getting enjoyment from dissecting the frogs and especially the worms. Charlie is an active member of the Diamond T. Club and enjoys his photography hobby.

Bern Langdon—We don't see Bern at school very often . . . could he be studying? Bern spends his time in Air Cadets and likes to play basketball.

Lawrence McDonough—Lawrence is the room wit, with his canny, unexpected remarks. Lawrence is generally quiet, but he manages to make school brighter for the four females who sit around him.

Don Necker—Don is Central's "Pool President." He is a stand-out player in basketball playing for the Grads, and is a backfielder for the Maroons Rugby Team. He is also a very active member of the Aquatic Club.

Stew Traves—"Stewy" was one of the big guns in the senior rugby team this season, and is an ardent curler. We want to wish him luck in the R.C.M.P. of which he will be a member after the school year.

Garth Wood—"A ball of fire" Garth was a spark in the Junior rugby team this year, and he is always on the move. "Woody" enjoys listening to good jazz, and is always ready with laughable remarks.

Bob Woods—Bob is the "drug-gist" of IVB. When not attending classes Bob can usually be seen delivering prescriptions for the boss.

Bob Wyatt—The rooms one and only pro. for he plays in Moose Jaw's favourite orchestra . . . Toddy's. With his comrade in arms, Demp., he is fond of teasing Anne.

Gordon Williams—Gordon has three residences in Moose Jaw. The Curling Club in winter months, the Willodale Golf Club in summer, and any other time at Wellsely Park.

Gen. Ohashi—"The Great Lover" of the Exchange Cafe. Gen. is a very enthusiastic sports' fan, and a jui-jitsu artist by profession. Gen. seems to be camera shy and simply refuses to have his picture taken.

Clive Paul—Clive takes part in rugby, curling and basketball at Central. The question asked is "Will Clive someday be drilling oil for a local firm?"

Lorraine Bozak—A member of the Basket Babes and an all-round sports enthusiast. Is a member of the happy throng that frequents "John's" after four. Lorraine is a gal who is preparing for a promising future.

Norma Brittin—Has an enviable trait of getting marks and still being able to enjoy herself as the rest do. It has won her the privilege of attending the exclusive (just for brains) nurse's training school at Windsor. We prophesy she will graduate with all the honors and get married the next day.

Margaret Cairnie—Captain of our victorious Basket Babes. Enjoys (?) the privilege of a seat near Joyner. Who else lives such a gay life as Marg. in Math and French classes? . . . Marg. in Bugs classes!

Sheila Clarke—A great curling fan and a lover of skating. Has a beautiful singing voice that few people have the chance to hear. She usually practises her scales as she picks up her Chemistry books for an after-school session . . . a time when most people are far from joyful.

Kay English—Has an ambition to study Home Economics at Varsity, but next year's plans include a job "with no homework." We well understand your point, Kay . . . have fun.

Pauline Frost—Is sitting among the "brains" in the back of the room . . . the "privileged people." She plans to take a business course next year and become a secretary of one of the big bosses of a prominent firm.

Eleanor Hunter—Sits also among the "privileged people." She is a quiet and studious girl not taking part in extra-curricular activities. In P.T. periods, however she shows up well on the basketball floor.

Maisie Hunter—Our school pianist, and an all-round good sport, sits in isolation in the back corner of the room.

4C

Anne Martin—Is a great sport enthusiast, taking part in bowling and softball. She pulls down the marks and charms all her fellow students sitting around her, with her ready smile.

Ruth Mason—Always having excelled in sports, surprised no one when she announced her intention to study Physical Education. We see Ruth in our crystal ball, twenty years hence, coaching her own baseball team.

Shirley Peck—Plans to make Social Work her career. Shirley, sitting in the midst of the "Little Lads," watches each day with a dignified air as they go through their daily ceremony. At the close she comes out with a little pun which leads to a match of wits with Dick.

Elsie Pomoski—Holds an envied position in the room . . . surrounded on all sides by the "Little Lads of IVC." Elsie is not sure what her ambition is but plans to work next year while she decides.

Sheila Summerell—One of the few of us with definite plans for the future. Is headed for Alberta next year where she plans to take a nursing course at Varsity. She's the brain-child that gets 90% in Algebra. Our crystal ball shows a brilliant future.

Erma Foster—Returned to the halls of Central with the New Year, picked up where she left off, and wonders why she left home. Another noted basketball player, she also has inclination toward making a career of sport.

Emma Wheatley—Head of the Central Bowling League. She is one of the fortunate (??) few who reside in reach of any of the teachers. She is the quietest girl in the room. (That's only because all her chums are in IVB).

Trev Boyer—Joined the class near the first of the year, and is noted for his whisper and frequent visits with L. C. He belongs to the local "gun gang." Trev's greatest ambition is to make an easy million (how?).

Dick Cudmore—"Satch" as he is called has signed up with the R.C.M.P. As our only inspiration, he comes with a pun in the time of need. He gathered fame on the rugby field, but turned to curling during the winter.

Ron Gallant—The quiet studious type, Ron suffered a cracked ankle near the end of the basketball season, and so the Clowns lost their top scoring ace for the playoffs.

Clive Hickson—Our popular master of ceremonies. Suffered from water on the knee, which broke up his fine foursome in the curling bonspiel. Between Clive and Elsie a silent feud is raging.

Gordon Hootz—Our doctor of Physics is determined in his convictions, but who will believe him. (Einstein). He loves "Bugs," especially a good whiff of formalin, or even a squirt in the eye.

Ted Joyner—Our fresh air fiend, whose main object for sitting next to the window seems to be to keep the room as cool as possible. We want to thank T. J. for his Easter Algebra mark; it shows the IVA hasn't all the brains.

Don Newton—The brain of our mob. As well as being quarterback of the Senior Rugby Squad, he was top-scorer of the Jokers. His favourite sport, however is picking on "L'il Red." He's famous for his laugh (?).

Walter Nychka—Another link in the long chain. He discovered last summer that Winnipeg is a fine city. Besides playing Junior Rugby and basketball, "Nych" has a secret ambition to run the C.P.R. Who knows what may happen when he gets through school.

Bob Stark—Our famous "Gunga Din" of the school gridiron squad. Bob played for the Grads. Between basketball practices, he could be found at the curling rink. Bob's biggest thrill was his mark of 96 in Geom. Trig.

Jim Steenson—Is the more studious type. As number one ice on the Junior Grid and backbone of their line, few would think so. But he's in and out of school so fast, what else can we think?

Robert Woolley—A sports-minded fellow, playing basketball for the Grads and also an ardent curler. He is the room rep. of IVC and a very active member of that form. We hear Bob likes Canasta.

Ken (Gus) Sheppard—No doubt the quietest boy in the room. He is well known for his singing ability, and was in great demand by Miss Irwin to teach us a tune.

Dennis Devine—One of the five in the "gum gang," Denny spends little time in school, his greatest worry being French. Denny played Senior Rugby and whizzed around in the Kinsmen Karnival, as well as skipping a curling rink.
